

6516208330.txt

As a subscriber to XM radio, I benefit from many of the channels that XM has to offer. I understand the NAB is concerned with XM broadcasting local news, traffic, and weather. I don't understand why they can't do this. This is a benefit of XM that I enjoy, I can turn to when I want to and receive the information within minutes, if not seconds. This is ridiculous, but understand that local radio has had the monopoly for years and fear they are losing listeners. Some people don't want to pay for radio, and they don't have to. For those of us that do, we should get what they have to offer. How can they patent the radio so no one else can compete?